From the Executive Office

Dear Providence Housing Authority Community:

The past fiscal year was an important year of change for the Housing Authority. In late December 2017, Paul Tavares retired from the Agency after having led it ably for more than five years, a time during which the PHA made great strides. In January 2018 I had the honor of being appointed as Executive Director of the Authority, after serving in multiple roles in the organization for the past eight years.

Our Board of Commissioners also worked through several transitions this year. Most notably, longtime board member, resident, and Resident Advisory Board president Gilberta “JT” Taylor passed away over the winter. JT will be remembered by so many PHA residents, staff, and commissioners for her fierce dedication to the Housing Authority’s mission and its people. She left a lasting legacy to her fellow residents, who have valiantly stepped into new leadership roles in the agency.

This year, an initiative to have Property Management, Resident Services and Facilities Management staff conduct regular “walk arounds” at all developments began with the purpose of increasing visibility and interactions with residents and the community, as well as to monitor and improve conditions throughout the Authority. This initiative reflects a broader commitment from the PHA to provide attentive service to our residents, and our interest in their input as we work together to further the PHA’s mission.

I am thankful for all staff, partners, and community members who continue to work hard to ensure that all our residents have a safe and healthy place to call home.

Sincerely,

Melissa Sanzaro
Executive Director
Board of Commissioners

The PHA's Board of Commissioners is responsible for continuing the mission of the organization as well as enhancing and expanding housing and social opportunities to all residents. The Board acts as a decision making body in regards to policies, plans and the agency's budget to advance the mission, vision and work of the PHA.

The eleven-member Board is comprised of three PHA residents who are appointed by the Mayor of Providence from a list of nominees chosen by residents in open elections and six regular members also appointed by the Mayor. Two board members are elected by the Providence City Council from among its members to serve four year terms. All Mayoral appointees serve staggered five year terms.

This year, the Board experienced several transitions and changes in membership. Most notably, the passing of long-time resident leader Gilberta "JT" Taylor (Hartford Park). Dorothy Waters (Coddin Court), another resident representative also stepped down after serving on the Board for 20 years. Both positions were successfully filled by resident leaders from family developments, Vivian Medina (Hartford Park) and Lonzie Doggett (Manton Heights).

Resident Advisory Board (RAB)

This dedicated group is appointed by their peers to represent the interests of all PHA residents. The RAB works to build a strong sense of unity among residents, to increase collaborations with outside organizations in order to gain additional supportive services that meet the community's needs and to ensure that residents' feedback is considered when new policies, programs and procedures are developed and implemented. The ten members represent the majority of our developments, including elderly and disabled as well as family developments. Their dedication to the PHA ensures the organization continues to strive forward.

Edward "Eddie" George
Facilities Management
Edward (Eddie) George was born in Ghana and came to the U.S. with his father and brother when he was only ten years old. Eddie has been a Hartford Park resident for 10 years. In 2016, he was hired as a part-time, temporary laborer focused on landscaping.

Eddie participated in classes at the PHA's Education & Training Center in an effort to complete his GED. He successfully obtained his GED in December, 2018. In August 2018, Eddie was promoted to a full-time position as a Maintenance Custodian with the PHA's Facilities Management Department. He says the PHA is a “very supportive work environment” that leaves him feeling accomplished and gives him an opportunity to better himself.

Business with Heart

Ronald “Ron” Izzo purchased his first multifamily property in 1983, and realized he had a passion for real estate. Shortly thereafter, Ron established the RI Realty Management Corp. and continued to build a portfolio of owned and managed properties throughout Rhode Island.

Ron’s relationship with the PHA began early in his real estate career. When asked why other landlords should participate in the PHA Section 8 Program, he replied, “The personnel then, and now, have always been a pleasure to work with. They have been professional, helpful, and thorough with both their clients and me. Business profitability is naturally very important; however, helping people and seeing them find security and comfort in their housing, makes my job a very rewarding one.”
Public Housing at a Glance

With more than 2,600 units of public housing throughout the City of Providence, the PHA proudly serves over 5,400 residents in nine public housing developments and scattered site homes.

The Property Management, Tenant Selection, and Facilities Management Departments oversee public housing admissions and other daily operations of the program.

During Fiscal Year 2018:

- 1,989 Pre-applications and applications were received
- 674 Interviews were conducted
- 578 days, on average, on the wait list for housing
- 346 Applicants were admitted into Public Housing
- 36 households were evicted (28 for non-payment, 8 for other causes)
- 17 Homeless individuals and families were housed
- 99% of units were occupied

One Home, Two Successes

Mother and son duo, Lilian and Joaquin Romero moved to Hartford Park in 2012. In taking advantage of the PHA’s many program offerings, Lilian graduated from CCRI, earning her Associate’s Degree in Early Childhood Education while her son attended Providence College earning an MBA in Business Management. Both enrolled in the Jobs Plus Earned Income Disregard (JPEID) program which froze their rent and helped them save toward their goals. Joaquin has found his calling working with high school youth through a program at Brown University and has saved almost $10,000 which he plans to use on a down payment to purchase a home for their family. As Lilian shared, “moving to public housing was a blessing… the programs have enabled us to reach our goals of becoming self-sufficient.”
Resident Services Department
At a Glance

- 7 new homeowners
- 58% of JPP participants were placed in full or part-time employment
- $326,180 in FSS escrow funds distributed
- Pre- and Post-testing showed that 40% of all Adult Ed participants made educational gains

Addressing Hunger
With nearly 13% of RI homes suffering from food insecurity, the PHA has been committed to addressing this problem for our residents through:
- Resident-led Food Pantry at Parenti Villa serving 74 households monthly
- Food on the Move mobile markets at 4 PHA sites
- Meals on Wheels serves 25 residents at Carroll Tower each week
- 1,016 Senior Food Boxes distributed in FY 2018
- Farm Fresh RI offered a 6 week program on nutrition & cooking

Public Housing to Home Ownership

Elia, a single mother of two, had lived at Chad Brown for over six years when she signed up for the Family Self Sufficiency (FSS) program in 2012. Her 5-year plan included going to college to become an accountant, improving her credit, and eventually buying a home for her and her family.

She graduated from the Community College of RI (CCRI) with her Associate of Science in Business degree in 2014 and went on to earn her Bachelor's Degree in Accounting from Rhode Island College. She found full-time employment and was quickly able to grow her FSS escrow account. Elia purchased a home in August 2017.

Investing in Herself

Keren is a member of our Jobs Plus Providence (JPP) and Financial Opportunity Center (FOC). When this single mom began working with the programs, her only income was child support along with her son's SSI/SSDI for a family of three.

She lived mostly on her credit cards and was only able to pay the minimum payments each month. She enrolled in GED classes and worked to update her resume with her Employment Coach. Keren found a job that offered a flexible schedule so she could continue to care for her young children and she reached 180 days of continuous employment in February of 2018.

Within 6 months of employment, thanks to the Earned Income Disregard (EID), Keren was able to pay off all her credit cards and has begun saving to buy her own home. She shares, “[PHA’s] guidance has been life changing...Thank you for being there and opening my eyes to a whole new world.”
Officer Tracie Miller
Security & Public Housing Unit for the PPD

Officer Miller has served in the Providence Police Department for the past four years. In November 2017, she became the first female officer to serve in the Public Housing Unit.

Officer Miller is proud of the connections she made within the community in the last few years by being able to participate in various programs and mentorship opportunities including the PHA’s Youth Police Initiative and the Providence Police Explorer Program. The Police Explorer Program serves youth between the ages of 14-20, allowing them to explore firsthand what it’s like to be a police officer.

Officer Miller also enjoys the opportunity to participate in events throughout the community. As Officer Miller shares, “I enjoy the fact that I’m able to participate in so many activities throughout the community. It makes me feel like now the community knows me and connects with me better. I love getting to know all the kids out there.”

Advocacy & Policy Changes

Re-Entry Housing Policy
After successfully passing a revised admissions policy for individuals with a criminal background history, in FY 2018 the PHA began implementing the policy. During the year, of those who applied 23 were admitted to public housing and by the end of the fiscal year 15 were successfully housed. The PHA continues to be committed to addressing housing and legal barriers that impact our communities.

Project Based Vouchers
In FY18, the PHA began exploring the conversion of up to 20% of its Housing Choice Vouchers to Project Based Vouchers. The change would allow the PHA to designate units at properties across the City for the Section 8 program. Meetings with stakeholders were held and feedback on the proposal solicited. In FY19, the organization will pilot a Request for Proposals that will project-base up to 50 units.

Digital Inclusion
The PHA joined the State of Rhode Island's Office of Innovation as one of several housing authorities in the State to participate in a national digital inclusion pilot project led by HUD and EveryoneOn called ConnectHomeUSA. The initiative led to funding for digital literacy training for residents and the PHA joined Pawtucket and Rhode Island Housing in a pilot program to collect data as part of our annual re-certification process regarding digital access. In FY18, the PHA was designated as a stand-alone member of the ConnectHomeUSA 2018 cohort. Membership will provide additional resources to the PHA to address disparities in connectivity and access to technology and digital literacy for PHA participants and residents.

Income Discrimination
Legislation (H7528 / S2301) proposed during the 2018 legislative session would prohibit discrimination against renters based on their “lawful source of income,” including a rental assistance voucher, Social Security payment or disability benefits. Passage of a bill like this would greatly expand housing options for voucher holders. The bill successfully passed the Senate, however, it died in the House prior to the end of the session. This legislation will once again be introduced in 2019 and the PHA remains committed to assisting in awareness efforts regarding the issue.
One of our most engaged partners over the past year, the Providence Public Library and Rhode Island Family Literacy Initiative have provided PHA residents with a number of educational opportunities over the past year. Most notably, they have delivered our digital literacy curriculum, which certifies participants in NorthStar Digital Literacy. Participants enjoyed the course so much that they asked for additional classes at the next level!
